THE WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW

THE NARROWING PRISON

(By Our Lady Contributor)

In my young days I remember that a certain kind of story was very common. It dealt with the torture inflicted by the Spanish Inquisition on its victims. One of the most ghastly of the tortures so described was a prison cell which by some mechanical device grew very slightly smaller each day until the inmate of the cell died of terror or was actually crushed to death. It was a terrible form of torture, so terrible that I find it difficult to understand the mentality of those who inflicted it on their fellow-creatures in the name of Christianity, the religion of mercy. Sometimes, as I look round me at my fellow-men, I am reminded of these stories. Many of them seem to be enclosed in just such prisons, so far as their lives and mental outlook are concerned. The bright, clever girl of twenty, interested in games, in books, in all sort of things, gradually loses her brightness and her interest in life, until she has become dull and tedious. If she is married, she is immersed in the petty details of household management, the wash-tub, or the bridge, and she is no longer interested in anything but her way to becoming that pathetic figure of the old song who sits alone in a cage and a parrot. It is not always so, I know, but it is too often so. Even if the girl has gone to such extremes, the decline is there, the mental deterioration is obvious. It need not narrow the outlook or embitter the temper. Rather it should add the width and mellowness of experience. Most of us have had the privilege of meeting women whose charm increased with their years. I think the fallings and the fallings-off are mainly due to our own fault, to our laying the essential foundations of the house of life wrongly. So-fall the result is inevitable. The walls contract and crush us until we are crushed. I think it is in our idea of marriage that most of us go wrong. Again and again we marry for ourselves and only interest in life is centered in young men and getting married. They talk of nothing else. They think if they think at all of anything else, all their activities range round this one great business of marriage. They are not interested in anything but themselves with their own. I find themselves with no object and no interest left in life. Because they have never learned to live for anything else in life, they are quite unable, even if they were willing, to philosophize about it. They never know that somehow or other life has ceased to be interesting. They never believe themselves for that fact, but vent their grievance on those immediately around them, and first and foremost on their husbands. They are equally unable to understand why the fascinating and lively fairy of courtship days has so rapidly faded into the peevish bore of married life.

Sometimes it is not the woman's fault at all. Sometimes she never gets the chance to keep the mansion of her soul from this contracting. All human beings are selfish, but men by reason of their having more physical strength and usually more money have a better chance of being successfully selfish. Therefore the woman is apt to find the entering wedge of selfishness in the man. I have known I always think has a great deal of pith in the "John," said a wife to her husband, "before we were married you used to say that my lightest wish should be your law. I have you utterly forgotten that. 'Not at all, my love,' was the villain's reply, 'but I have never been able to make up my mind as to which is your lightest wish.' That is the case far too often. Not from deliberate cruelty, but from that want of thought by which so much evil is wrought, husbands often shut up their wives' souls in a prison and daily contract of walls.

It is all unnecessary, so it seems to me. In this age of enlightenment of women before the law, of cheap books, cheap moving picture theatres, and cheap travel, so much more readily without that knowledge of life and the world which keeps awake one's interests and maintains a just proportion in one's judgments. It is mainly a matter of education and common-sense in the selection of one's interests. Most of us can tell at a glance the difference between the woman dressed in the costume of old and good material, and the one arrayed in a cheap and nasty gaudiness, and of us we would hesitate to say which was the better dressed woman of the two. In the same way we can select our interest and our elements. We can select the cheap and common of dinner parties, and the more enduring stuff of wide ranging conversation from which the foibles of our neighbors is barred, music and the world at large round us. The well-stored mind will never find itself in a contracting and narrow prison. For such a mind life will retain its interest and the world its colour, even though the years take the freshness from the step and the brightness from the eyes.

FRANCE IS INFORMED THAT BRITAIN WILL NOT REMAIN PASSIVE

London, July 13.—The prime minister, Stanley Baldwin, in a house of commons, and Marquis Curzon, in the house of lords, to eager audiences yesterday made identical pronouncements on the government's policy on the reparations problem. In contrast to such statements by his predecessors, Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law, which were very strongly Premier Baldwin's pronouncements were particularly brief, taking about 15 minutes for delivery and, as neither house did the opposition offer criticism of any consequences, the momentous questions were quickly ended.

Question Unanswered
The question on everybody's lips—how far the British government's open disavowal of the Munich policy and its holding aloof therefrom were to be converted into an active policy, separate from the Munich policy, a great question unanswered. Premier Baldwin certainly moved quite far from the Munich policy, but he announced the government's decision to submit to a separate reply to Germany's latest offer. He did not give the slightest indication of the nature of the proposed policy.

This was the only important point in the pronouncement for the remainder was a warning couched in the friendly language, but, plainly telling France that the British government could not much longer remain a passive spectator to a policy which threatened the economic collapse of Germany and with it disaster to the whole of Europe.

A New Appeal
Taken as a whole, the pronouncement seemed to be a new appeal to France to retrace her steps and come to terms with the Allies in a new effort to settle the reparations problem, by negotiation, instead of by penalties. The British government most careful to avoid any shutting of the door on renewed negotiations. The pronouncement was a complete absence of any reference to the United States in connection with the negotiations, which was a surprise, with England rather than with France.

Carefully Framed
Carefully framing his pronouncement to ward off criticism from pro-French members of the government and the pro-British members, the prime minister was emphatic in declaring that Germany must be made to pay to the extent of her resources. He made no answer to the French demands as to what should constitute the French claims, but he said that the French-American convention, which was originally proposed to afford the French a complete guarantee of German attack. He alluded incidentally to what was considered the pet theory of himself, that of the Kenna, that the reparations problem needs settlement in connection with the international debt, but he omitted to enlarge on this point.

Opening to France
Clearly the British policy was developed with a view to leaving open the door to a new settlement. It may be assumed that any decision to accept the French demands and experts to determine Germany's paying capacity will come in the proposed reply to the German offer.

There was an understanding that there should be no embarrassing claim to embarrass the government but that a separate day should be given for the rumors of the French discussion on the pronouncement. The common and only a minor discussion in the House.

The Weak Point
In the upper house, Lord Birkenhead put his finger on what he regarded as the weak point in the government's policy. He asked what was likely to happen in the almost inevitable event of France repudiating the Munich policy. He said that the government's reply to Germany, Rumors have been in circulation here for the last day or so, that the government was in the process of repudiating the Munich policy. He said that the government was in the process of repudiating the Munich policy.

Viscount Grey also emphasized in the strongest language the urgency of preserving the Anglo-French entente.

WHEAT GROWTH AHEAD
According to reports coming into Calgary, wheat is filling out in some districts at the present time and is earlier than last year. In many places it is headed out and nearing the filling-out stage, while there is an unusual report of wheat in the milk stage.

Indications are generally optimistic and the pessimists who have been crying fear of frosts because the wheat would be late this year, due to the late start, have apparently been laboring under a delusion.

Authorities in Calgary who have been getting reports from all over the province for the past few days, state that in the majority of localities the wheat is further advanced than it was last year at this time.

CONTRACT LET FOR FENCES
Edmonton, July 17.—Contracts for 115 miles of rural line telephone extensions in various parts of the province have been awarded by the Department of Agriculture to A. McGregor, J. W. Nohler and J. S. Glover. The total expenditure will be about $11,000, and work is to begin at once.

It is expected that this will be the last of the rural line telephone contracts for the province this year. Applications for about 200 miles of extensions were received by the department, but only a little more than one half the mileages asked for, finally qualified by meeting the conditions which the government requires in the way of putting up money deposits in advance of construction.

A LAND OF GREAT RESOURCES
Alberta is One of the Greatest Provinces of the Dominion

Alberta is a land of great resources. It will take time and money to develop them, but that time and money will be well spent. Those who have knowledge of them readily admit. With rich agricultural lands producing almost everything that can be produced; the best conditions for raising livestock; lakes abounding with fish; water-powers that could supply industries with cheap power; oil fields almost a certainty; natural gas already being extensively used; mineral possibilities in many sections of the province; Alberta can look forward to a future as one of the greatest provinces of the Dominion—Lethbridge Herald.

FIELD DAY AT DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL STATION, LACOMBE

On August 10th a field day will be held at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe. The flower, fruit, and vegetable gardens and the cultural, rotation and variety plots of grain and forage crops would be at their best. These will be visited in order, and brief talks will be given on the many experiments under way with these crops and with the poultry, cattle, sheep, hogs and horses on the farm. There are three breeds of poultry, two breeds of cattle, six breeds of sheep, three breeds of hogs, and three breeds of horses. Visit the Experimental Station on August 10th. Bring your lunch and plan for a full afternoon of pleasure and profit.

Programme for Field Day at the Experimental Station, Lacombe.

The work of the Experimental Station will be visited and discussed in the following order:

Weather recording instruments. Flowers, shrubs, ornamental hedges and bush fruits.

Strawberries, vegetables, orchard fruits, bees.

Horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry.

Cultural plots, and variety plots of grains, grasses, sunflowers, corn, roots and potatoes.

Rotations, 15 different crop rotations, a most important factor in successful farming.

Refreshment: both will see lunches, coffee, ice cream, etc. Hot water will be provided for those bringing their lunches.

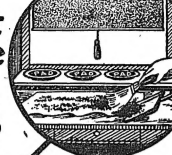

WHEN USING WILSON'S FLY PADS READ DIRECTIONS CAREFULLY AND FOLLOW THEM EXACTLY

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

This is it—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, raise one of the blinds where the sun shines in, about eight inches, place as many Wilson's Fly Pads as possible on plates (properly wetted with water but not flooded) on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room closed for two or three hours, then sweep up the flies and burn them. See illustration below.

Put the plates away out of the reach of children until required in another room.

WOMEN'S PLACE IN THE WORLD

A Woman Will Work for Righteousness and Peace.

"I have great faith in women," said Mrs. Colin Campbell, prominent club woman of Winnipeg, when in Montreal a few days ago, but she added, "they must stand on principle and learn that principle and personal ideals will not mix, and that women's entrance into the political and club life of the country would exert a restraining influence." History has a happy—indeed, sometimes an unhappy—knack of repeating itself, and if we go by what the historians Siculus, writing of the status of women in ancient Egypt, had to say, we gain an insight into the political and social importance of the gentler sex of that faraway period. Siculus said, "As the people, as well as in the royal families, the wife has authority over the husband; and in the marriage contract has expressly to pledge himself to obey the wife." In Sparta, Plutarch endorsed this view, and Aristotle added his testimony with the remark, "Contentious and warlike people such as the Spartans are, always pass under the domination of women." But times have changed, and we have changed women. Women occupy the most honored places in most of the learned professions; indeed a woman was appointed but a short time ago secretary of the Bulgarian legation at Washington.

What can the objections be to women in politics, in diplomacy or in the learned professions? That she is emotional, easily swayed and cannot keep a secret? All exploded fallacies! Great women are not indifferent. "Diana of the Crossways" was written by a man. Did Queen Elizabeth divulge secrets? Did Madame de Maintenon? Or Marie Therese? Or Catherine of Siena? Or, in recent times, Madame de Noailles, Russia's ambassador to Mr. Gladstone? Women have good manners, tact and charm as natural attributes, and as it has been proved again and again, when they are pitted against opponents in the interests of their country they are versatile antagonists and hard as steel. Man as a diplomatist can never be fully ousted from that position, but he can, and will when necessary, gladly share the honors with the gentler sex. Suppose women took their place officially at Washington. The Hague, Lausanne or elsewhere. They would bring a patriotism just as keen and yet compatible with loyalty to allies. Would a woman's eye be less keen than a man's? Would she be less susceptible to intrigue? Is not a woman's honor at least as unshakable as a man's? In any case a woman will work for righteousness and peace. Last month Mr. Baldwin addressed a large meeting of women representatives of the Nationalist Unionist Association of the United Kingdom, and contended that it was necessary for women to work hand in hand with the men of the party in the interests of the Empire. Mr. Mackenzie King at Ottawa stressed adherence by the membership of the National Federation of Women's Clubs to the platform of the Liberal party. The necessary qualifications that Canadian women should have to carry out the ideas set forth by Mrs. Campbell are an intimate acquaintance with Canada and Canadian affairs; a knowledge of the Dominion history stretching back to its earlier times; and familiarity with its geography and natural resources. Women no less than their critics have the love of their fellow-beings in their hearts, and because the work to which they set their hands is founded on love, it is solid and will last.—Montreal Gazette.

A selfish individual who lives for himself alone is usually the only person in the world to mourn his demise.

SYLVAN LAKE U. F. A. PICNIC

The Sylvan Lake U.F.A. picnic came off on Wednesday on the Lake front in fine style, the ball games being played on the ball grounds. The weather was just what was needed, and energetic committees of members, including the ladies with their refreshment stand, helped to put the events over. There were races for the little tots, and the junior and senior events came off as follows:

Girls' race, 14 and under—Marie Sveinsson, Mildred Martin.

Boys' race, 14 and under—Wm. Parker, Kenneth Blades, A. Kujala.

Girls' race, 16 years, 3-legged—Marie Sveinsson and Christina Grimmon.

Boys' race, 16 years, 3-legged—Wm. Parker and Bobt. Henderson.

Young ladies' race—Miss Kingsop, Esther Stapp.

Young men's race, and ball race—George Johnson, Norman Kee.

Married ladies' race—Mrs. Hagerman, Mrs. G. Grimmon.

E. Running hop, step and jump—J. H. McLean, B. C. Learned.

Putting the shot—H. N. Johnson, K. Learned.

Clown prize—P. Duffield.

The baseball events were good games, especially the Benato-U.F.A. game after tea. The single men beat the married men 9 to 6, while Benato beat Sylvan Lake U.F.A. by 8 to 5. McKee and Nelson were the best for Benato; Elfranson and Grimmon for the U.F.A.

A dance in the Hazelwood hall in the evening, with the Calgary Jazz orchestra, was crowded, and the young people had a jolly time to wind up the day.

President A. Paucher was assisted the event by a high-spirited committee, consisting of Messrs. Geo. Johnson, G. S. Grimmon, P. Duffield, K. Learned, S. Sveinsson, B. C. Learned, Secretary, who contributed much to make things go off so well.

DRURY OFFERED LEADERSHIP OF FARMER PARTY

Toronto, July 11.—At a meeting of Farmer members-elect, held this afternoon at the parliament buildings, Premier E. C. Drury was offered the leadership of the party, the decision being unanimous. When he was informed of his choice, he said he would require two or three weeks to make up his mind in the matter. This time was readily accorded him.

The proceedings were conducted in camera, and it was stated afterwards that marked unanimity prevailed throughout.

The statement still persists in political circles that the Hon. W. E. Ransay will give up his seat in East Wellington in order to find a place for Premier Drury. He has declined to deny the report or to give any hint of his future political course. It is stated that more than once he has expressed the desire to return to his private practice.

EXAMINER'S REVIEW OF PROVINCIAL MARKETS

Calgary, July 12th.

Cattle—Beef—Calgary practically had no market this week until Wednesday; receipts light and market more active on that account. Choice heavy and light steers, $5 to $6; medium, $4.50 to $5; medium, $4 to $4.50; common, $3 to $4; Choice cows and heifers, $4 to $4.50; good, $3.50 to $4; medium, $3 to $3.50; common, $2 to $2.50; canners from $1.50 down. Few bulls offered, and quality poor. Calves not as strong, top yearlings, $6 to $6.25; common, $2 to $5. Feeders, Stockers—Good buying, with light feeders $4 to $4.50 and stocker steers $3 to $4. Stocker heifers mostly around $3; Choice yearlings, $4 to $5.

Beef—Edmonton had a light run this week also, and the prices held steady to firm on Wednesday. Stockers are advised to get in touch with the commission men during fair week. Choice heavy and light steers, $5 to $6; medium, $4.50 to $5; medium, $4 to $4.50; common, $3.50 down. Choice cows, $4 to $4.50; good, $3.50 to $4; medium, $2.50 to $3; common, $2 to $2.50; canners from $2 down. Choice heifers up to $5. Bulls unchanged at $2.50 for tops and down to $1. Calves unchanged at $5 to $6 on tops, common down to $2.50 to $4. Feeders, Stockers—Good demand, choice heifers, $4.50; others $2.50 to $4. Stock heifers, $1.50 to $3. Stock cows, $1.50 to $2.50.

Hogs—Calgary prices last week end got down to $3.25 and this week trading started yesterday around $3 on the black smoothes; 10 percent. premium on bacon.

Edmonton hogs showing some fluctuations between $3.25 and $3.50; receipts not large.

Sheep—We were a few sheep at Calgary this week; choice lambs $12.25; weathers, $9; ewes, $8; values uncertain owing to light movement.

More sheep coming in to Edmonton yards, choice lambs up to $13 and plain ones down to $11; weathers, $9 to $10; ewes from $7 down.

Grain—Western crop conditions are generally good, with the exception of the districts which have been killed. Some districts say they have too much rain, but on the whole the entire prairie provinces scarcely ever looked better. Prices took a bad break during the week and spot wheat and futures are all down.

Butter—Creamery—Local prices unchanged at all grades; Montreal has shown firmness and Vancouver still buying at unchanged prices. Butterfat—All prices unchanged; production large. Dairy Butters—Dealers report large receipts and outlet hard to find; fancy table 22c to 24c; on grade prices from 12c to 15c. Cheese—Prices unchanged, new make heavy and moving out well.

Eggs—Prices unchanged and large proportion of lots now showing in shipments; no improvement until eggs get for storing. Poultry—Live shipments light and dealers not encouraging them. Dressed poultry down, with chickens 12c to 21c; fowl, 13c to 15c; demand light.

Potatoes—Alberta old crop still selling around $15, Calgary delivery; local new potatoes not a market factor yet.

Hay—Few cars of new cutting bringing good prices and opportunity to make sales should not be overlooked; dealers say the market will be worth $10 to $12 later on and timothy at present $20 to $22; alfalfa, $14 to $14, country. It looks like a good year for market early, as heavy supplies are reported from not only all over Alberta but other provinces.

Hides—Dealers report hides practically unsalable at present prices. Some butchers hides down to 4c, flint dried at 10c; kip unchanged at 5c; calves at 10c.

Furs—Very little movement in market now.

WESTERN GIRLS HAVE "PEP" AND ABILITY

Exceed All Others in "Go Ahead" Spirit and Enterprise

Let the girls of the east look to their laurels!

The latest report is that the girls of the far west exceeded all others in enterprise, pep and ability to get ahead.

Anna M. Clark has just spent 10 months making a survey of the work of the girls of the country and has found this to be true.

"There's none of the What-shit-did-it-happen-to-it kind of part of the western women," she says. "Long before girls finish school they determine definitely what they want to do with their lives and start training for it."

"The western girls don't look upon society as a career; they want to do something for others as well as themselves."

"In a lumber camp I met a girl waiting on table to earn her way to college. She was a degree. She said she wanted to be a doctor because then she could do much more to help the ignorant mothers of the country."

"Another girl who had already received her degree from normal school was going to state university to study rural leadership and architecture. She said she was well qualified for the type of rural school teacher that the isolated community needs."

"And to Miss Clark says she found girls everywhere, planning to teach, do social work, or go into professions, and to definite fields of service in the communities in which they live."

She found that the western girl is interested in good work, not the literary or pleasure clubs.

"I found agricultural clubs, parent-teacher organizations and political groups becoming a power for good legislation," she reports. "In one coast city of 10,000 inhabitants I found 102 flourishing up-to-the-minute women's clubs."

"Some of them in Washington and Oregon are much amused at the eastern women who come out to tell them that they are the best."

"Idaho women have voted for 20 years. In Washington sociology is taught in the public schools and everywhere there is legislation for better schools and wider opportunities."

"So were is good advice for the woman who seeks a career."

LIQUOR PLEBISCITE

Should question "A" receive a majority of the ballots cast by the people of Alberta on November 5, 1923, the Alberta Government promises a stricter enforcement of the present Liquor Act.

We are assured by the Attorney-General, the Honorable Mr. Brownlee, that his Department is now making its utmost endeavor to enforce the present Act. That the Liquor Enforcement Division of the Alberta Provincial Police is efficient, and is receiving all reasonable assistance from the city, town, and village police. If that is so, there is but one class of law enforcement officials that has not yet been developed to its possibilities, and that is the army of stool pigeons. This class of law enforcement is decidedly un-British, and has, and will prove highly expensive, with the result that it will bring all law and order into contempt. Conditions today in Alberta would indicate that we are perilously near that condition now.

THE SANCTITY OF AGREEMENTS

Comparatively recent questions have come to public notice in Canada which have involved the principle of commercial good faith on a large scale. One such was the taking over of the Grand Trunk Railway by the Dominion Government, and the payment to be made therefor to the shareholders. Another was the drought area legislation of the Alberta Government and the question of the personal covenant in Alberta mortgages. In each case it was suggested in some quarters that the action of the government concerned was contrary to the strict code of commercial good faith, and has shaken the credit of the Dominion or of Alberta respectively. In each case, as might be expected, the government action had its defenders either on the ground of a denial of any breach of faith or of an assertion of imperious necessity over-riding the normal principles of business. Whatever the facts of these particular cases, there can be no doubt that the sanctity of agreements is a cardinal principle of commercial prosperity. British trade is world-wide. Speaking generally, British trade holds its own against any competitors. The reason for this is probably not the superior cunning or energy of the British trader, but the fact of British good faith expressed both in the high quality of merchandise and in a consistent adherence to the principles of agreement, whether it be a treaty between nations or a bargain between individuals, for the breaking of which it is not possible to find some reason or excuse. If one of the parties wishes to do so. The reason or excuse may not be good. It may be bad in law or in justice, but it can be put forward and can usually be given a colour of plausibility in the eyes of those in whose interest it is advanced. Suppose a farm is bought under an agreement for sale providing for payment by instalments. There are successive crop failures, and the buyer is unable to make his payments. In how many such cases does he not resent it bitterly if the seller proposes to cancel the agreement under such circumstances? Yet the buyer has really no shred of justification for any such resentment. He made and signed his agreement, and he is unable to live up to it through no fault of the seller, he should take the consequences as provided for in the agreement. He is very rarely willing to do so. Usually he makes for a lawyer and instructs him to find a way of getting an extension of time for payment, which in other words is a means of breaking his agreement. Often he is successful in doing so, until now something like a tradition has grown up that an agreement of sale is really of little value.

Nothing could be worse for a business community like ours. Mutual credit, mutual confidence are the life of business. If they are not, the machinery of business will not run smoothly, and may cease to run at all. Something of the sort has happened in Germany on a huge scale since the war. The German government has made promise after promise, signed agreement after agreement with the Allies. It has never made any serious effort to keep any of them. The result is now plain. German credit has ceased to exist even within its own people. The last attempt at an internal loan was a complete failure, and the German mark no longer has any real value with the result that German foreign trade is now collapsing and unemployment and anarchy are beginning to be very real dangers in Germany.

It is well that we should learn the lesson, at least, of our legislators down to our most humble individuals—that unless we keep faith with each other and live up to our obligations promptly and to the utmost of our ability, we shall find our credit grow less and our business fall away.

THE CHANGED OUTLOOK

A recent commentator on the speeches and literature of the labour movement throughout the world called attention to the fact of how more or less completely that movement is absorbed with the material welfare of those whom it aims at benefiting. Shorter hours of work, higher wages, better houses—all these are imperiously demanded, but higher standards of character and conduct are apparently not of much importance. It may be that the champions of labour think that these are already sufficiently high, or that they consider it impossible to elevate people's character (in their material or financial condition) has been improved. It may, however, be due to another reason—that the balance of man's interest has shifted from the soul to the body of himself and his fellows. Two thousand years ago the cry for help of the man of Macedonia in the vision of St. Paul was for help to solve the problems that were then vexing the souls of men. The cry of the modern Macedonians seems to be almost exclusively concerned with harbour facilities on the Aegean Sea. For many centuries after the Christian era began it was the souls of men that claimed their attention. Great wars were fought, bitter controversies raged, terrible cruelties were inflicted and endured in the passionate desire to destroy what was thought to be spiritual errors, and to save the souls of men. The translated material world of the present was lightly regarded as compared with the enduring spiritual world of the future. The threatened spiritual penalties of a poor soul could shake the throne of God.

It is not so now. The material aspect of things is the dominating one. The internal controversies of nations are concerned with wages and housing, not with religious dogmas. The wars of the world are for markets, not for faith. Not the reformation of Christianity but the coal fields of Poland, the minerals of Asia Minor, were causes which tore the whole world to pieces in the late war. Even such tremendous and obvious issues as that of Asiatic Immigration into white countries are looked at mainly from the economic standpoint. What is the cause of the change? Is mankind generally losing its faith in another world after death? Has the vastly added knowledge of this world given by science in modern times crowded out of men's minds any consideration of another world? Have the crude conceptions of the past been destroyed by modern knowledge and has nothing been put in their place? Is it true, in the words of M. Viviani, Prime Minister of France in 1914, "We have put the light in the heavens, never to be re-kindled"? We do not believe so. The interest awakened by the writings and lectures of men like Sir Oliver Lodge, or Sir Arthur Conan Doyle seems to indicate that human nature is still as eager as ever to listen to anyone who can even profess to tell them something of what lies beyond the veil of death. A sincere preacher with a real message to deliver can even now fill the churches to overflowing. The standard of human conduct does not seem to be lower than in the days of fervid religious enthusiasm. On the contrary, in the essentials of morality, mercy, kindness the standard seems to be higher. Things that were mere everyday occurrences in the days of the past are now thought of as unrespectable horrors.

It may be that the change is not so great as it seems. It is at least possible to argue that the intense zeal for religion of past ages was in reality at least as selfish as the present absorption in the things of the world; that the men who wrangled and fought and suffered all things for religious principles, were really thinking as much of their own welfare as the money-seeker of today. Only they looked at a prolonged happiness in a future world, while the modern money-seeker looks at a prolonged happiness in this world. It is possible to argue that at least as much faith and trust in a future Power is shown by a superior performance of the duties and enjoyment of the healthy pleasures of the world as we are now in, while we are waiting for a more certain future, as by an agonized dread of future torments and frenzied supplications for relief. On the other hand, we have the ability to take the long view and to put the permanent welfare before the immediate gratification of the senses. Therefore, putting the matter on its lowest level, and ignoring any question of duty owed to a Supreme Power, it is hardly wise to allow our minds to become, as it were, short-sighted by absorption in the things immediately around us, when there are behind and before us immensities of which we are not even dimly aware. It is worth asking ourselves if the change is for the better.

THE UNREPENTANT GERMAN

The Franco-German quarrel is still unsettled, and the prospect of settlement does not seem for the moment to be very bright. Germany has made one or two apparent offers of settlement, which have been promptly rejected by France and Belgium on the ground that they are both insufficient in the amount they offer as reparation and insincere in the guarantee. Moreover, the spirit shown in these offers is exactly the same as that exhibited by Germany throughout—a spirit of unrepentant insolent hostility, which has not the faintest intention of keeping a promise or observing an agreement. It is hardly surprising therefore that France refuses to be drawn into negotiations which would be merely a repetition of former ones and have no real time and opportunity to evade her obligations.

There has lately been published and received with great approval in Germany the second volume of a book by one Oswald Spengler, which unfortunately goes to show that the people of Germany are not only little changed by the war. This book is one of those philosophies of history which were taught to have done so much harm in Germany before the war by the spirit of unrepentant aggression advocated in them. The same spirit prevails throughout this new book, "War is life," says the author, and the world will continue to live in the same way until the end of time. The end to be achieved remains always the same, the growth of youth over the old, the class or nation at the expense of others.

It is not five years since the war ended, but already we are forgetting it and the danger which it brought so near to us. The war might, probably would never have come about, if we had been ready, if we had paid attention to those who warned us of what was going on in Germany in preparation for it. So now, war need never come again if we keep our eyes open to the dangers around us, if we recognize the simple fact that there are men and nations in the world who wish us ill and are prepared to do us harm if we give them the chance. The mere wish for peace will not give us peace. Only our own strength can secure it for us under Providence. What is to be the outcome of this war? Is it to be the outcome of what we call the "peace" of 1918? Is it to be a permanent peace? Or is it to be a permanent state of things, the rule and misery that it involves for Europe and the world? Is it to be changed? If one is living next door to a homicidal criminal, it is useless to reason with him, to tell him that he has shut out for life. With a nation like Germany this is impossible. Those who believe in the peace-seeking nations may cure her, but close alliances are not easy to break. The peace of 1918 is difficult enough in time of war. Political prophecy is notoriously uncertain, but looking at the state of Europe at present the prospects of enduring peace seem very precarious. We may be shocked to find that a distance from it, and hope doubtfully that duty will not compel the complete failure to intervene in such a struggle that we have recently come through.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mayor Webster, of Calgary, was captured by the gold red men of the city hall, Calgary, last week, and a picture was taken of the warriors on the city hall steps, with the Mayor in the midst. He looked utterly frightened, and well he might, because we believe he was the worst looking man in the bunch. On the other hand, there was also a picture of representatives of the Women's Pioneers and Old Timers' Association, and among them we noticed Mrs. Joe E. Wright. Par be it from us to say so, because Mrs. Wright is the old Red Deer girl, but she was the best looking woman in the bunch.

In concluding an article on the voluntary pool of the July 1st issue of the U.P.A. President Wood says: At the present time it does not seem possible that this organization can be completed in time to handle the 1923 crop. But I think I can give positive assurance that it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible, consistent with the best interests of the pool. In the old days politicians called the late Sir John A. Macdonald "Old Mac" in the essential of nearly every word will have to be applied to President Wood, and incidentally to the provincial rulers, as the farmers with the voluntary pool be idea in their bonnet are growing awfully tired of this overhauling waiting around for "some time to turn up."

There is a spirit of optimism in the air. Each successive crop report issued by the banks or the government becomes more and more optimistic. The wonderful rains covered the whole province, while the damage by hail, grasshoppers and other pests to the farmers, has been in isolated spots only. The Calgary Exhibition, or perhaps one should more properly say Stampede, has been the most successful ever held. Red Deer Fair opens next Monday and will be more entertaining than ever before, with attractions of a new and varied character. We hope to see it go over the top and perhaps retrieve the losses of late years.

The National Trade Association of the United States recently made an impartial examination of the result of advertising. They found that only one person out of thirty buys goods that are not advertised. While six per cent of ten buy advertised, standard articles of merchandise, even though the latter are frequently higher in price.

Referring to the throwing out of the railway extension bill by the Senate after it was passed by the commons, the M.P. for West Kootenay asks for the abolition of the Senate, stating that it makes responsible government impossible. Replying to the member, Senator Green stated that the bill was thrown out because it was insane legislation. The Senate, according to the Senator, is the only body that prevents the country going to the demagogue without. And perhaps he is right at that.

There are too many car accidents on the Calgary Fair trail of late. Too many people seem to think it necessary to go at racing speed on that trail, and it is in no shape to do so with safety. If it were only the speeder himself that suffered, it would be no case for complaint, but usually it is some other body that is observing the law that gets the bump and the loss.

The Didsbury Pioneer says:

A delegation from the Olds Board of Trade, and citizens to the number of about twenty, attended a meeting of the Didsbury Council and citizens last week to get some information regarding the plausibility of supplying the two towns with electric light from a central station, Didsbury. They seemed only to want the information, however, and did not enter into any discussion as to its feasibility. This question is one that has rather grown stale by now as it has been brought up so often. Carstairs, it seemed, they dropped the notion altogether, as they figure it would not pay owing to the large number of individual plants down there. It would most certainly be a dead arrangement to combine the three towns in this matter and give a continuous service. However, it seems that the other towns are divided amongst themselves, as it is on our guard against that, they break at any time.

Toronto Conservatory Examinations

The results of the recent music examinations held under the auspices of the Toronto Conservatory, of Mrs. G. Simons' pupils, have been only kept with the following splendid showing: Primary: Honors, Clifton Porter. Introductory: Honors, Jean Porter, Jean Harvey, Ralph Berry. Passed, Marie Harvey. Mr. Ferdinand Filion, the presiding examiner, spoke very highly of the entire training the pupils received and considered them fortunate in being under the direction of such a capable teacher.

Miss Daisy Gaez, who took her Assoc. Teachers Exam (vocal) did remarkably well, and Mr. Filion complimented her on the excellent work accomplished, and remarked it was unusual to find a pupil taking this difficult exam in one year, as the required time is two years. In the Harmony and Theory classes, Mrs. Simons' pupils also came out very creditably. Miss Vera Houston taking Honors in Primary. The Rudiments and Harmony: Miss Gaez receiving Honors in Harmony, while Miss Gladys Jones, Clifton Porter and Helen Simons all passed in Primary Rudiments and Theory, the last named the girl completing two years' work in one.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

Harvest Labor for Alberta. Serious attention, is now being given by Hon. Alex. Ross and Walter Smitten, Labor Commissioner, to the problem of securing to the farmers of the province sufficient labor to handle the harvesting operations this fall. Arrangements have already been made by the three prairie provinces for the special rate of a cent a mile on the railways to the West, and a conference is to be held in Winnipeg to discuss means of securing labor. It is estimated that Alberta will require from $800 to 10,000 men. The railway companies and the Dominion government are now considering extensive advertising campaigns in the East and the States to secure harvest labor. Every means of securing help is now being canvassed by Hon. Mr. Ross and the labor department.

Like Jasper Park. Among the many prominent tourists who are visiting the famous mountain resorts this year is Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who has been here for the first time. Of this news travel park he writes that in his travels in 23 countries, he has not seen more ideal place to spend a holiday.

Big Stampede a Success. The Stampede held in Calgary during past week in connection with the exhibition was the most complete of the kind ever staged in the West. Many hundreds of visitors were present, a considerable number from points in other parts of Canada and the United States. A corps of magazine writers and motion picture men were also on hand, which will result in considerable publicity to the province.

Acting Deputy Attorney General. R. A. Smith, chief counsel in the department of the attorney general, has been appointed acting deputy attorney general in the place of A. G. Brown, who has been granted six months' leave of absence, and may possibly retire from the service permanently. Trenchome Dickson, also with the department, has been appointed official guardian, which position was also filled by Mr. Brown.

Edmonton Exhibition. The annual exhibition at Edmonton opens on Monday, July 16, and continues for the week. An exhibition will also be held this year in the city of Lethbridge, on July 31, August 1 and 2. The rural fairs are now in progress.

Stock Judging Contest. The first prize in stock judging contests put on by the department of agriculture at the Calgary Fair, Thursday, and open to students of secondary schools from the provincial agricultural schools, went to the Raymond school team, which won the grand total challenge cup with 1097 points. The Claresholm team was second with 1064 points, and Olds third with 948 points. Each team was made up of three boys. The trophy for the winning team and the individual prizes were given by the Calgary Fair board. Last year the challenge cup was taken by the Gleichen school.

GOOD MONEY IN GOOD FARMING

"Let's Get to Work and Pay Off the Mortgage"

NINE years ago Canada's national debt was about one-third of a billion. It is more than two and one-third billions today.

Our debts have greatly increased—our revenues must also go up. The farmer has to bear his share of the increased burden. That means he must increase his revenue.

Complaint has been heard that farmers under present conditions in Canada cannot make farming pay. And yet many thousands of Canadian farmers do make it pay.

How Is It Done?

Patient and industrious "carry on" will do wonders, but something more is needed. Too often "patient industry" is coupled with "dull persistence" in poorly thought out methods.

Farmers today more than ever, must plan ahead, as well as "plug along"; indeed they have no option, if they wish to succeed.

Co-ordination of head and hand will mean real success. Farming in Canada has paid and pays now on many farms. It can be made to pay on almost every farm. Canadian agriculture has passed through low profit-making years successfully in the past and can do so again.

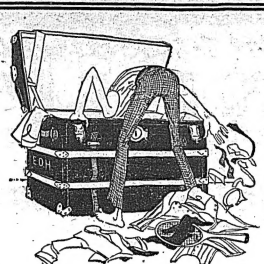

Crop Returns Should be Increased

On the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, crop costs and crop profits in 1922 as compared with all-Canada average crop costs and crop profits are given below. The all-Canada figures are in brackets:

	Cost per acre	Profit per acre
Hay	$12.15 ($13.50)	$11.21 ($5.09)
Corn for
Forage	$47.50 ($33.75)	$10.38 ($2.86)
Qats	$7.47 ($12.22)	$ 7.33 ($4)

Similar results can be shown from the Dominion Experimental Farms in every province.

Experimental Farm crops are sometimes claimed to be produced at too great cost. Thousands of experiments, however, show that increased cropping costs wisely applied up to a reasonable point always increase crop profits. This is true on the Experimental Farm—and on any and every farm.

Anticipate Your Requirements For Lumber

Ever improving crop prospects is stimulating buying. If this crop comes off, as present prospects indicate, the demand for lumber and building materials is going to tax the supply, and the problem of delivery will be great.

Allowing four cars of lumber for each of the 1500 yards operating in the three Western Provinces, would require 6000 cars, which at 25,000 feet of lumber per car, will total 150 million feet. Where is this stock to come from? Delivery will be slow and prices higher.

DIAMOND VALLEY U.F.A.

The monthly meeting of the Diamond Valley U.F.A. was held on Saturday, June 16, the attendance of members being nearly doubled.

Egg marketing and a co-operative enterprise were briefly commented upon.

Final arrangements for hinder twine were discussed, nearly every member present increasing his order for twine.

The chief business of the evening was the matter of bringing in more competition in the buying of grain in this district.

It was moved by Mr. Clausen and seconded by Mr. Wadson that we get in touch with the matter of having a U.G.G. elevator built on the C.P.R. line at Eckville.

Mr. Clausen took the floor in support of his motion, and pointed out the advantage not only to districts adjacent to Eckville, but to Eckville and by means of a hauling distance.

Since the above meeting, the secretary has been in communication with the U.G.G., who are favorably impressed with the project, and in their last letter stated their intention of sending out a representative to canvass the district for new U.G.G. shareholders.

The shares are expected to be $5 down and $5 for each of the next five years. This amount is not much to get better marketing facilities in this district, so have your pocketbook handy.

The next meeting will be held on Saturday night, July 21.

W. F. KÖRNER, Secretary.

ECKVILLE U.F.A.

A joint meeting of the U.F.A. and E.C.W.A. was held last Friday.

Correspondence was read from Alfred Speakman, M.P., this being a reply to our resolution re the West grain routes, from G. W. Smith, M.L.A.; the secretary of the Live Stock Shipping Association, etc.

The following were appointed to attend the Live Stock Shipping Association annual meeting and the Political Association meeting at Red Deer, July 3: A. Isaacson, C. Gustavson, and the Secretary, Mr. Chas. Kasper was delegated to attend the Co-operative Creamery at the same place on the 10th.

Many orders for hinder twine were received, and everyone is urged to make known their requirements to the committee, or you can leave your order at the Co-operative stores.

It was decided to have our annual outing and picnic of both organizations at the home of Mr. C. Kasper on Saturday, July 14. This will be along the lines of last year, but on a different day.

Mr. Alfred Isaacson will talk from the Bible and his psychological effect on the audience.

You are all welcome. Bring the whole family. Refreshments, ice cream, candies, etc., will be available on the ground.

At this meeting it was requested that the farmers should as much as possible observe the Saturday holiday during the months of July and August.

After the business was over, the ladies served refreshments.

LUNCHEON TO DR. DICK

Some twenty to twenty-five of the closer friends of Dr. Dick, medical superintendent of the Mental Hospital for Returned Soldiers, which has recently been moved from Red Deer to Oliver, near Edmonton, gathered at the Commercial Café on Tuesday, June 19, to observe the departure of Dr. Dick on his way to Oliver.

Dr. Dick's personality and voice, which has been put on the Commercial's last stage, and his efforts were unanimous in the expression of the Commercial had expressed itself on this occasion.

Judge Mahaffy presided, having on the right the guest of honor, the party was also favored with the presence of Dr. Cook, medical superintendent of the Mental Hospital at Ponoka, and Dr. McAllister, Red Deer, medical superintendent of the Home for Mental Defectives. Mr. A. B. Mitchell was secretary of the committee in charge.

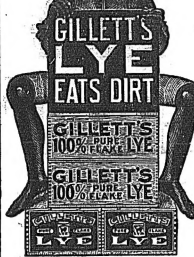

The Judge briefly stated the object of the gathering and called on Dr. MacCrosbie who presented Dr. Dick with a handsome pin and case as a slight token of esteem and remembrance. It was accompanied by a package of Bill Durham tobacco to enable the Doctor to start it.

Dr. Mahaffy, Dr. MacCrosbie and Dr. Galt all bore tribute to the genial personality of Dr. Dick, his splendid service in the work of our organizations. They regretted his removal, but wished him all success in his new home.

Dr. Dick made feeling reply, speaking of his happy associations with his friends in Red Deer and his long relations with the city authorities; he sincerely thanked them for their tribute to himself and his work, and would not forget the kindness shown him in Red Deer.

Dr. and Mrs. Dick will carry with them the best wishes of many friends for their continued success in their new home.

When Raymond took his school report home to his father he was very angry, and scolded his small son for being at the bottom of the class. "But, there's no need to worry, daddy," Raymond said calmly. "I know it's the best place, because you're at the bottom. You can't get any lower."

PRINCE OF WALES TO VISIT ALBERTA RANCH THIS FALL

Ottawa, July 11.—Official announcement of the proposed visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada was made this evening from government house.

The announcement reads as follows: His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, travelling as the Duke of Cornwall, proposes, with the King's sanction, to visit Canada, spending a short holiday on his ranch in Alberta during early autumn. The visit will be of a purely private nature, and His Royal Highness regrets, therefore, that it will not be possible for him to accept official engagements of any kind.

Object of Visit.
London, July 11.—The object of the proposed visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada is to redeem the implied promise he made during the fall of 1919 when, in referring to the ranch in Alberta, he said he hoped to visit it sometime and make it his home.

The Daily Mail says that the Prince will sail the beginning of September and return toward the end of the month. It is understood that H.R.H. will live the life of a rancher in a hut or tent if the weather is fine.

CALEDONIAN GAMES AT CONDOR

The Caledonian Games Society held a meeting in the Community Hall on Friday evening, July 6, principally for the purpose of settling up business pertaining to the games held the week previous. Mr. Shaw filled the chair until the President, A. L. MacDonald, returned.

The Secretary read the statement of the receipts and expenditure on Sports and Games, which was $20.00. The Treasurer, Mr. D. D. MacDonald, reported that the receipts were $20.00, and the expenditure was $20.00.

Mr. MacDonald presented a letter from the Vice-President, Mr. Warden, who reported, and also the illness of Mr. D. D. MacDonald, whose eyesight has become greatly impaired, so the members present thought we should assist these gentlemen in the matter, and a motion was unanimously passed that we donate from our benevolent fund $15 to each of them.

Mr. A. MacDonald received a well deserved vote of thanks for the manner in which he supervised the games, and the entertainment. Mr. MacDonald also received a vote of thanks for doing his duty. The meeting then adjourned until further notice.

A. K. BLAIR, Secretary.

The sports and games held on June 29 came off very successfully. The day was about right for plunking, but the unsettled condition of the weather prevented us from having a very good number away. However, a very good crowd was present.

RESUME OF EVENTS AND LEGISLATIVE ENACTMENTS BY RECENT PARLIAMENT DURING THE PAST YEAR, AS THEY AFFECT AGRICULTURE

(By the Hon. W. R. Motherwell)

Ottawa, July 18th, 1923.

An effort has been made, by not altogether disinterested parties, to belittle the results of the recent session of Parliament.

Speaking more particularly with respect to agriculture, I may say that I cannot recall any Session of Parliament since Confederation that passed more beneficial legislation on behalf of agriculture than the one recently prorogued. True, five months is a long time to spend in performing the work, but that is one of the prices we must pay for groups in Parliament, all of whom have to have their say.

A number of Acts have been passed such as "An act to amend and consolidate the Acts respecting Live Stock" and "An Act to regulate the sale and inspection of Fruit and Fruit Containers," which can be merely referred to here as containing very important and up-to-date legislation in their respective fields. The same may be said of the amendments to the Feeding Stuffs Act and the Dairy Industry Act, the latter of which provides for the prohibition of the manufacture and importation of filled butter, filled milk and filled cream—three pernicious practices that were widely but persistently established in their respective fields. The same may be said of the amendments to the Feeding Stuffs Act and the Dairy Industry Act, the latter of which provides for the prohibition of the manufacture and importation of filled butter, filled milk and filled cream—three pernicious practices that were widely but persistently established in their respective fields.

In addition to this important legislation affecting one of our chief cornerstones of Canadian agriculture—dairying—was the Act to finish during the last Session on the question of whether the prohibition of the manufacture and importation of Oreo would be again reverted to, as it existed for thirty years prior to 1917. By a non-party vote of fifty-four to one hundred and twenty-five, Oreo, for the time being, received a solar plexus blow that will take some covering from. Nothing daunted, however, the packers' professional lobbyist was an anxious inquirer around the corridors the week following the vote, doubtless with a view to renewing the battle at some later date.

The report of Dairy Commissioner Mr. J. A. Riddick and Mr. W. A. Wilson on their return from New Zealand and Australia, coupled with the before-mentioned beneficial legislation on behalf of the dairy industry, made the last Session of Parliament an outstanding one, so far as the dairy industry of Canada is concerned.

Although the removal of the British embargo on Canadian cattle did not require legislative action on the part of the Canadian Parliament, it did on the part of the Imperial Government, which was the outcome of a conference between the Imperial and Canadian authorities—hence, properly referred to in this article as one of the advanced steps taken on behalf of agriculture during the past year.

The removal of the British Embargo against Canadian cattle has had a greater direct result in improving the farmers' market than any other single move that has been accomplished during the past few years. The position of being largely shut out of the only two available markets for her live cattle—the American thrifling and the British Embargo accomplishing this end.

An agitation has been carried on, both in Great Britain and Canada, for a number of years for the removal of the Embargo, and a great many people on both sides of the water have given valuable assistance. In this effort, and not a few of them claim that the removal of the Embargo is entirely due to their efforts.

But to say that a great many people helped in bringing this about, is much nearer the truth than the matter.

For the last two or three years, while it was generally expected that the Embargo would be ultimately removed, it was of vital interest to the business of raising cattle in Canada that it should be removed quickly, and the delay was not only disappointing, but it was ruinous to the cattle business.

The present Canadian Government not only acted promptly, but effectively, in this matter, and when the Ministers of the Government and the officials of the Department of Agriculture entered into a conference with the members of the British Government and officials of the British Ministry of Agriculture, they had a very difficult task on their hands.

They accomplished something, however, of real importance for the Canadian farmer when they came to a satisfactory settlement of the case, which, as a matter of fact, was only concluded the morning after the Lloyd George Government had resigned.

The new Government took office in London, and then for a time it looked like another year's delay. A special Session of the new Parliament was called in November to pass the Irish Bill. The Canadian Government pressed to have the legislation removed to the new Government, so that this Session was for a special purpose, and that the Embargo legislation should remain in effect until the regular Session after the first of the year. It was only after repeated and persistent urging on the part of the Canadian Government that this question which had been of such long standing was finally solved by the British Government passing an Act removing the Embargo, which came into effect April 1st of this year.

There is not a live stock man in Canada but recognizes clearly the tremendous advantage it would have been to have had this market last fall, and what a calamity it would have been were it not available this year.

Mention might also be made of the granting of a certain bounty on twine and cordage made from hemp, for the purpose of establishing a hemp industry in Western Canada—a movement well worthy of a moment's consideration.

Canada last year became famous by having arrived at the stage of being the largest exporter of wheat in the world. In the face of this it does seem a mistake to longer continue to depend upon foreign countries for the twine with which to tie nine-tenths of this crop. Hemp is a product that can be grown successfully, almost luxuriantly, in many parts of the West and East, with or without irrigation. It grows freely in this country, and should supply unlimited quantities of raw material for the successful establishment of a hemp industry, the future production of which for both home consumption and export no man can estimate. As important as this should be to every Western man, strange to say, only three Western Members supported it.

Following the reduction of freight rates by the restoration of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement, important legislation has been passed designed to control and regulate lake routes, which seemed to such alarming proportions last fall.

The personnel and work of the newly-appointed Royal Grain Enquiry Commission, presided over by Mr. Justice Turgeon, is another indication of the desire of the present Government to serve agriculture faithfully and well.

The increase in the estimates of over half a million dollars for the eradication of Bovine Tuberculosis, twenty-five thousand for further experiments in the exportation of dried beef, the various subsidies for experimentation with the dehydrating of fruit, all speak for themselves and indicate a further desire to grapple with first things first in the solution of Canada's many agricultural problems.

Live stock men generally will greatly appreciate the valuable importation of the various purebred breeding animals imported and selected personally by Mr. Archibald, Director of Experimental Farms. These animals are intended for distribution among the various Experimental Farms, for which farmers may replenish their breeding stock to advantage as desired.

A question of more than usual significance to Western agriculture was the three-year Canadian National Railway Construction programme, passed by the House of Commons and approved by the country generally, more particularly by the West. Imagine with what consternation it was learned that the irresponsible Senate had stopped it and thwarted the will of the people by giving this railway programme the six months' hiatus. As if to add insult to injury, some Western Senators have the audacity to say (as per Senate Debates) that the Government so enacted this legislation that it would court the disaster that befall it. How false this statement is, nobody knows better than the ones who make it.

Staveland, Nobleford, Coalhurst, Lethbridge, Wilton Siding and Raymond. While the damage from this storm will be heavy, there will be a considerable recovery, it is anticipated, in the later season grain, which had not attained a sufficient height to suffer greatly from the hail. In the earlier sown fields, loss will be from 50 to 90 percent.

Farm Labor: While the demand for farm labor in the provinces is not keen at present, indications are a great number of men will be required this fall, the estimate of the commissioner of labor being between 2000 and 3000. Special conferences are planned between authorities of the three western provinces with a view to making arrangements to meet this demand.

Annals of the schoolhouse on Saturday, July 7. A large turnout of people attended the gathering, and a very enjoyable day was spent. The latter part of the sports programme was somewhat marred when our daily supply of rain started to come down. Fortunately, most of the events were run off before the rain started, so that the disappointment was not so great as it might have been. The keenest rivalry was displayed in the married and single events. The married men beat the single fellows to the tune of 6-0 in the football game; the married ladies carried off the honors in the tug-of-war, as also did the married men, in no uncertain manner. When the rain stopped the proceedings out of doors, the company adjourned to the schoolhouse where dancing commenced about 5 o'clock, and continued without a break until 12 o'clock.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Province of Alberta to Wit:

BY VIRTUE of a Writ of Execution issued out of the District Court of the District of Red Deer, at the suit of Stewart Brothers, Plaintiffs, and George F. Walsh, Defendant, and to me directed against the lands of the Defendant, I have seized and taken taken into execution the following lands, namely:

North Half of Section Twenty-one (21), Township Thirty-eight (38), Range Five (5), West of the 5th Meridian, in the Province of Alberta, containing 320 acres more or less, and reserved mine and minerals to His Majesty the King, and subject to taxes due or to accrue due.
 I am advised that this half section of land is fenced all around with wire, post from 10 feet to 1 rod apart, 30 acres of this land have been cultivated. There are two wells on the North-East quarter, both containing good water. On the half section of land there are possibly 80 acres in timber; the rest of the land not already broken or cultivated can very easily be plowed with little or no clearing. A small creek runs across the South-West corner of the North-West quarter. The only buildings on this property are located on the North-East quarter and are as follows: Log and lumber house, 16x24; frame barn, 30x32, only partly roofed; log chicken house, 16x12; log pig house, 24x18; granary, 16x12.
 The soil is black loam with a lighter soil on the highlands. The buildings and fences are in good condition.
 I shall expose the said land for sale on Thursday, the 23rd day of August, A.D. 1923, at the Sheriff's Office in the City of Red Deer, Alberta, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon.
 E. S. HOGG, Sheriff.
